

Social realism, magic realism, anti-realism, etc. . . . there's a "realism" out there for everyone. Or is there? Headlight invites you to explore the many possibilities and impossibilities of representing the real, whatever that may be. This exploration brings up questions about reality's relationship with truth, where different realities end, begin, or overlap, and the challenges and responsibilities that come with any attempt to grasp what's real in text or images.

.headlight anthology.

Literary & Art journal based in Montreal, QC

[blank]

realism

call for visual art

[Visual art submissions should be in high resolution .png format.
Email submissions (up to 3 images) along with a short bio (~80 words)

headlightanthology@gmail.com

by midnight on December 16, 2018.]

